of writing. Building out from that technique, Writing the Natural Way shows a writer how to tap the profoundly personal productive, generative right hemisphere of the brain, or "design mind" to use Rico's phrase, and how to remain faithful to its dynamics throughout the writing process. Rico approaches writing always as a totality, never as a linear arrangement of separate skills.

We're all so familiar with clusters as prewriting tools that we've forgotten how they were originally intended to be used. In Dr. Gabriele Lusser Rico's classic book, Writing the Natural Way, she says... Writers need some magic key for getting in touch with these secret reserves of imaginative power. What we lack is not ideas but a direct means of getting in touch with them.
